

MASS INCARCERATION

Learn about mass incarceration – an increasingly used method, of handling society's problems!

Why is it chosen? How does it operate? Is it effective in reducing crime? Is it the best choice?

Are we safer?

Come to Concord Friends (Quaker) Meetinghouse, 11 Oxbow Road, Canterbury, on Saturday, November 16, at 1:30pm, for a presentation by Richard N. Van Wickler, Superintendent of the Cheshire County House of Corrections.

Superintendent Van Wickler is an engaging speaker, highly recommended speaker, who will discuss the subject, and who will engage in questions and answers, after his talk. He is a 26 year veteran of an active division of the US Army, and began his career in corrections in 1987, at the Merrimack County Jail. He was appointed Superintendent of the Cheshire County House of Corrections, in 1993, at a time that the Cheshire County Jail faced significant litigation in Federal Court. He was tasked with revitalizing an agency that was in need of training, structure and professionalism. He is the founder of Chameleon Consulting, and a faculty member for Justice Studies, at Keene State College and NH Community Technical College.

Admission is Free (donations accepted)

Light refreshments will be provided
